Enjoy Unzen’s multifaceted mountains, seas, and hot springs!

Best of Unzen

Unzen City is located on the Shimabara Peninsula, dominated by Mount Unzen. The vast seas, mountains, and hot springs for relaxing both body and mind make Unzen the perfect destination for driving holidays or leisurely walks. Shown below are model routes for exploring the diverse attractions of Unzen.

By car

Recommended Driving Route

1. Obama Onsen
   - Attractions include the Hot Foot 105, Jigoku, Mount Unzen Visitor Center, and Nita Pass
   - Located 700 m above sea level, the spa was in olden times a summer resort that drew many overseas visitors. Attractions include seasonal scenic beauty, such as Miyamakirishima azaleas, Yamaboshi dogwood flowers, colorful autumn leaves, and tree-covered forests. Walking through the steaming Jigoku, trying onsen tamago (hot-spring-boiled eggs), and visiting the Mount Unzen Visitor Center to learn in depth about the three hot springs on Shimabara Peninsula are just some of the popular things to do at Unzen Onsen. Driving up to Nita Pass via the Unzen-Nitatoge Junkan Doro (Unzen-Nita Pass Ring Road, toll-free, 100 yen donations appreciated) to enjoy the panoramic view is also recommended on a fine day.

2. Unzen Onsen
   - Attractions include Jigoku, Mount Unzen Visitor Center, and Nita Pass
   - Suishanosato is a park created around a stream that flows from Iwado Shrine. The water temperature of the stream is stable throughout the year, so it feels refreshingly cool in summer, and warm in winter. In May the park hosts the annual "Moo Moo Festival," which includes calf weight guessing and other activities for children to see farm animals up close. At other times, the wooded park with plenty of negative ions is perfect for forest therapy.

3. Suishanosato (Iwado Shrine)

At other times, the wooded park with plenty of negative ions is perfect for forest therapy.

4. Kojiro Kuji Samurai Residences (Nabeshima Residence)
   - The group of samurai residences and associated buildings, the oldest of which date from the late 17th century (Gennroku era of the Edo period), transport visitors back to the Edo period, helped by the historical ambience of the surrounding stone walls, hedges, waterways, and demarcations. The district was designated a Preservation District for Groups of Traditional Buildings by the national government in February 2005. The most important building among the group is the Nabeshima Residence, which was originally built, along with the other buildings in the group, by Nabeshima Takakuni, who was the fourth descendant of Nabeshima Nobuzumi (older brother of Nabeshima Naonari), the first lord of Kojiri, which was an exclave of the Saga Domain.

The roof is topped with a cupid’s arrow, and the walls are decorated with heart-shaped clovers bearing numbers. The love-themed station even issues exclusive souvenir tickets for visiting couples.

2 Nabeshima Residence

The residence is Shimabara Peninsula’s only National Important Cultural Property, and was reputedly where Katsu Kaishu and Sakamoto Ryoma took lunch together on their way back from Nagasaki. The site inspires thoughts about the two men and what they might have envisaged as they made their journey.

3 Iwado Shrine

Set in a deep, tranquil forest, the shrine has an awe-inspiring atmosphere as if it is steeped in the mysterious powers of nature.

5 “I Love You Bench” at Hot Foot 105

Bench representing “I love you” in sign language. Another romantic place to sit and watch the sunset.

The history of Unzen began in 701 CE when Buddhist monk Gyoki established Manmyoji Temple. In 1850, Yoshida Shoin, who was a scholar of classic Japanese literature and culture, sojourned at Kojigoku spa at Unzen during his study trips to Nagasaki, and contemplated the affairs of the country. After the Meiji Restoration, fuelled in part by written mentions by Philipp Franz von Siebold, the popularity of Unzen among overseas travelers to Japan soared, and Unzen grew into an internationally known summer resort.

The earliest written account of Obama Onsen, a hot spring community at the foot of Mount Unzen overlooking Tachibana Bay, is found in the Hizen Fudoki, dating from 731 CE. Obama gained popularity as a spa from around 1614. The arrival of the railway in 1923 (discontinued in 1938) ushered in Obama's heyday, driving the construction of new roads and bringing a lot of business to Obama's ryokan district. Poets Saito Mokichi and Taneda Santoka wrote haiku upon being inspired by the scenic beauty of Obama.

Monument at Onsen Koen Park

"温泉," pronounced onsen and meaning “hot spring,” was originally pronounced unzen, which was the origin of the place name Unzen. A monument to this historical fact can be found in front of the Unzen Tourist Association.

Yoshii Isamu Monument

Yoshii Isamu, who belonged to the Myojo circle of poets, visited Unzen in 1920. His poem inspired by an overnight stay is inscribed on a monument in front of Yumoto Hotel.

Kitahara Hakushu Monument

Rabindranath Tagore Monument

Indian poet Rabindranath Tagore, who was the first Asian recipient of the Nobel Prize in Literature, also visited Unzen. A monument to Tagore can be found in front of Kyushu Hotel.

The semi-cylindrical Christian tombstone (referred to in Japanese as a tarugata bohi, or barrel-shaped tombstone) with a pedestal, has no inscriptions or crests, but is of significant scientific value because it is a well-preserved and large example of this very rare type of tombstone, with the typical hog-backed shape. The tombstone can be found near Dogen Shrine.

A unique, tofu-shaped stone monument inscribed with a poem by Taneda Santoka can be found in front of Kunisaki Ryokan. The poem was inspired by a trip to Obama made by the poet, who is known for his free verse haiku.

The monument, found at Denmyoji Temple, commemorates the achievements of Egawa Nittoku, who was a Chinese pediatrician and doctor of traditional Chinese medicine. Egawa emigrated to Japan, where he was instrumental in widely promoting the health benefits of Obama hot springs.

Aino is a town overflowing with the richness of nature and love. It is blessed with a mild climate and a nostalgic, rural landscape.

Aino Station

Also the honorary headquarters of the Japanese association of romanticists. The external wall painted with numbered clovers is a favorite photo-shooting spot for couples.

Wind Turbine

The sole wind turbine stands in a potato field in Aino Town, and looks picturesque at dusk. There are parking spaces nearby.

Aino Exercise Park

The park in central Aino (behind Aino Junior High School) is a favorite walking and jogging spot for locals, who arrive from early in the morning.

Yamamoto Art Museum

The museum occupies part of Aino Tenbosho, overlooking Tachibana Bay. The collection comprises works by Kan Kozaki and other printmakers, as well as ceramics (admission charge).
Aino Vista Point

The viewing platform overlooking Tachibana Bay is located about 100 m above sea level. The Tachibana Bay fault is visible immediately below, and on clear days visitors can see all the way to the Unzen mountain range in the east, Mt. Tara in the north, and even the Amakusa islands.

Kubizuka

There are several different theories as to the nature and origin of the kubizuka (head mound) in Aitsu, Aino Town. According to one, it is where the severed heads of 10,000 Christians were buried by the bakufu after the fall of Hara Castle, which ended the Shimabara Rebellion. Another claims that the war dead from both the rebel and bakufu camps were buried here. There is also the suggestion that it is the burial mound of a 6th- or 7th-century local ruler.

Let’s go around Unzen City!

Unzen Event

The source of Unzen’s vitality

Respect for Unzen’s natural and historical assets and culture, and the sense of pride that comes from inheriting them, have been a source of vitality for local residents. Through the festivals and events listed here, visitors too can experience the energy and power created by people who live in a beautiful natural environment.

Unzen Akari no Hana Boro (February)

“Hana boro” is a local term for rime, which is a winter feature of Unzen. In February Unzen spa becomes beautifully illuminated with electric lights and candles inspired by rime, which bring a romantic atmosphere to the streets.

Unzen Shimin Hanabi Taikai (April)

This dynamic festival of fire is held annually to coincide with the cherry blossoms at Tachibana Shrine, one of the foremost local cherry-blossom viewing spots. The highlight of the festival is the torchlight procession through town, which faithfully recreates a battle that took place during the Sengoku period more than 400 years ago. Torch-bearing participants in samurai armor look truly impressive.

Moo Moo Festival (May)

The event is held at the verdant Mizuhonomori Park. The program includes calf weight guessing, tasting of fresh milk, and other activities for enjoying contact with nature and animals, such as a petting farm offering visitors the opportunity to experience feeding cattle and sheep, milking, and butter-making. There is also a flea market and a farmers market.

Hadaishi de Asobo Unzen (August)

For this day only, children take over the Unzen Golf Course, where they are encouraged to play barefoot. There are also such attractions as kite-flying and a petting zoo.

Kunimi no Hi [September]

Kunimi no Hi (lit. Kunimi Day) is held on September 23 (9.23, which is homonymous to the town name). The large-scale event, with cooperation from those in the fields of sports, culture and industry, takes place at the Ariake Ferry parking lot, and comprises a wide variety of events, a flea market, and stalls.

Yu You Marathon [December]

This is a road-running event that starts from the town center of Obama. Held on the same course as the Unzen Obama Half Marathon held under the auspices of the Japan Association of Athletics Federations, Yu You Marathon attracts participants from within and outside Nagasaki.

Events are subject to change and cancellation by organizers.
