

The background is a soft, light pink gradient. It is decorated with various floating elements: pink cherry blossoms in the upper right, orange maple leaves scattered throughout, and blue snowflakes on the left side. At the bottom, there are three distinct images: a field of white daisies on the left, a vibrant red maple tree on the right, and a snow-covered mountain peak in the center.

Unzen Volcanic Area Geopark Q&A

Q What is a geopark?

A Geoparks are outdoor “museums” where visitors can learn about the Earth’s history. Geoparks demonstrate not only interesting topography and geological formations, but also examples of human lifestyles and histories shaped by its natural features.

Q What are the highlights of Unzen City?

A Geosites (places where visitors can observe and experience unique topography and geological formations) such as Heisei Shinzan and Chijiwa Fault. Unzen also offers two completely different hot spring (Onsen) water qualities at its two spas, Obama Onsen and Unzen Onsen.

From Ainomachi

20 min drive

1 Obama Onsen

(Attractions include the Hot Foot 105 foot spa, Kaminokawa Spring, Carbonate Spring, and Obama Town Museum of Historical Materials)

Explore the spa town on foot, then rest your weary feet at Hot Foot 105. Obama's hot spring water is known for its skin benefits and alleviation of cold extremities. Adjoining the foot bath is a large mushigama (lit. steam pot) for visitors to steam-cook and enjoy locally procured vegetables and seafood.

2 Unzen Onsen

(Attractions include Jigoku, Mount Unzen Visitor Center, and Nita Pass)

● Jigoku

● Nita Pass

Located 700 m above sea level, the spa was in olden times a summer resort that drew many overseas visitors. Attractions include seasonal scenic beauty, such as Miyamakirishima azaleas, Yamaboshi dogwood flowers, colorful autumn leaves, and rime-covered trees. Walking through the steaming Jigoku, trying onsen tamago (hot-spring-boiled eggs), and visiting the Mount Unzen Visitor Center to learn in depth about the three hot springs on Shimabara Peninsula are just some of the popular things to do at Unzen Onsen. Driving up to Nita Pass via the Unzen-Nitatoge Junkan Doro (Unzen-Nita Pass Ring Road, toll-free, 100 yen donations appreciated) to enjoy the panoramic view is also recommended on a fine day.

3 Suishanosato (Iwado Shrine)

Suishanosato is a park created around a stream that flows from Iwado Shrine. The water temperature of the stream is stable throughout the year, so it feels refreshingly cool in summer, and warm in winter. In May the park hosts the annual "Moo Moo Festival," which includes calf weight guessing and other activities for children to see farm animals up close. At other times, the wooded park with plenty of negative ions is perfect for forest therapy.

4 Kojiro Kuji Samurai Residences (Nabeshima Residence)

The group of samurai residences and associated buildings, the oldest of which date from the late 17th century (Genroku era of the Edo period), transport visitors back to the Edo period, helped by the historical ambience of the surrounding stone walls, hedges, waterways, and demarcations. The district was designated a Preservation District for Groups of Traditional Buildings by the national government in February 2005. The most important building among the group is the Nabeshima Residence, which was originally built, along with the other buildings in the group, by Nabeshima Takanari, who was the fourth descendant of Nabeshima Nobufusa (older brother of Nabeshima Naoshige), the first lord of Kojiro, which was an enclave of the Saga Domain.

Historical Journey of ## ● History of Unzen Onsen

The history of Unzen began in 701 CE when Buddhist monk Gyoki established Manmyoji Temple. In 1850 Yoshida Shoin, who was a scholar of classic Japanese literature and culture, sojourned at Kojigoku spa at Unzen during his study trips to Nagasaki, and contemplated the affairs of the country. After the Meiji Restoration, fuelled in part by written mentions by Philipp Franz von Siebold, the popularity of Unzen among overseas travelers to Japan soared, and Unzen grew into an internationally known summer resort.

Historical monuments

Indicated in blue on the map on p. 50

Monument at Onsen Koen Park

“温泉,” pronounced onsen and meaning “hot spring,” was originally pronounced unzen, which was the origin of the place name Unzen. A monument to this historical fact can be found in front of the Unzen Tourist Association.

Kitahara Hakushu Monument

Yoshii Isamu Monument

Yoshii Isamu, who belonged to the Myojo circle of poets, visited Unzen in 1920. His poem inspired by an overnight stay is inscribed on a monument in front of Yumoto Hotel.

Rabindranath Tagore Monument

Indian poet Rabindranath Tagore, who was the first Asian recipient of the Nobel Prize in Literature, also visited Unzen. A monument to Tagore can be found in front of Kyushu Hotel.

Unzen and Obama

●History of Obama Onsen

The earliest written account of Obama Onsen, a hot spring community at the foot of Mount Unzen overlooking Tachibana Bay, is found in the Hiizen Fudoki, dating from 731 CE. Obama gained popularity as a spa from around 1614. The arrival of the railway in 1923 (discontinued in 1938) ushered in Obama's heyday, driving the construction of new roads and bringing a lot of business to Obama's ryokan district. Poets Saito Mokichi and Taneda Santoka wrote haiku upon being inspired by the scenic beauty of Obama.

Historical monuments

Indicated in blue on the map on p. 50

Saito Mokichi Monument

A poem inspired by the beauty of the sunset over Tachibana Bay, composed by poet Saito Mokichi, who visited Obama, is inscribed on a monument beside Unzen City Office Obama Branch.

Taneda Santoka Monument

A unique, tofu-shaped stone monument inscribed with a poem by Taneda Santoka can be found in front of Kunisaki Ryokan. The poem was inspired by a trip to Obama made by the poet, who is known for his free verse haiku.

Obamacho Shigemuta Kirishitan Bohi (Christian Tombstone in Shigemuta)

The semi-cylindrical Christian tombstone (referred to in Japanese as a tarugata bohi, or barrel-shaped tombstone) with a pedestal, has no inscriptions or crests, but is of significant scientific value because it is a well-preserved and large example of this very rare type of tombstone, with the typical hog-backed shape. The tombstone can be found near Dogen Shrine.

Egawa Nittoku Monument

The monument, found at Denmyoji Temple, commemorates the achievements of Egawa Nittoku, who was a Chinese pediatrician and doctor of traditional Chinese medicine. Egawa emigrated to Japan, where he was instrumental in widely promoting the health benefits of Obama hot springs.

Unzen Event

The source of Unzen's vitality

Respect for Unzen's natural and historical assets and culture, and the sense of pride that comes from inheriting them, have been a source of vitality for local residents. Through the festivals and events listed here, visitors too can experience the energy and power created by people who live in a beautiful natural environment.

Unzen Akari no Hana Boro [February]

"Hana boro" is a local term for rime, which is a winter feature of Unzen. In February Unzen spa becomes beautifully illuminated with electric lights and candles inspired by rime, which bring a romantic atmosphere to the streets.

Kan-o Kaen [March]

This dynamic festival of fire is held annually to coincide with the cherry blossoms at Tachibana Shrine, one of the foremost local cherry-blossom viewing spots. The highlight of the festival is the torchlight procession through town, which faithfully re-creates a battle that took place during the Sengoku period more than 400 years ago. Torch-bearing participants in samurai armor look truly impressive.

Unzen Shimin Hanabi Taikai [April]

The fireworks display is part of a traditional festival for thanking the deity of hot springs. There is a parade through town in which participants carry a mikoshi (portable shrine) containing hot spring water, and a stage is set up for performances of Obama taiko and other traditional performing arts of the locality. The greatest highlight is the fireworks display, in which Kyushu's master fireworks makers show off their skills.

Moo Moo Festival [May]

The event is held at the verdant Mizuhonomori Park. The program includes calf weight guessing, serving of fresh milk, and other activities for enjoying contact with nature and animals, such as a petting farm offering visitors the opportunity to experience feeding cattle and sheep, milking, and butter-making. There is also a flea market and a farmers market.

Hadashi de Asobo Unzen [August]

For this day only, children take over the Unzen Golf Course, where they are encouraged to play barefoot. There are also such attractions as kite-flying and a petting zoo.

Kunimi no Hi [September]

Kunimi no Hi (lit. Kunimi Day) is held on September 23 (9.23, which is homonymous to the town name). The large-scale event, with cooperation from those in the fields of sports, culture and industry, takes place at the Ariake Ferry parking lot, and comprises a wide variety of events, a flea market, and stalls.

Unzen Momiji Walk [November]

This is a walking event for walking through the spa town at a leisurely pace, appreciating its distinctive atmosphere and natural beauty. There are a number of courses with different distances, such as a "Fugen hiking course," and a "Parent-child walk." Participants can enjoy Unzen's colorful leaves and scenic beauty.

Yu You Marathon [December]

This is a road-running event that starts from the town center of Obama. Held on the same course as the Unzen Obama Half Marathon held under the auspices of the Japan Association of Athletics Federations, Yu You Marathon attracts participants from within and outside Nagasaki.
